

Sylvia Wu

During Qingming this year, I went to my grandfather's hometown to sweep the tombs of my ancestors. This picture is one of the scene in the mountain. People in the mountain have a rather simple life. I did not see that they play their phones all the time; instead, they have really close relationships with other people in the mountain. All people know one another very well.